

TAKING YOUR CYBERSECURITY TO UNASSAILABLE HEIGHTS

While virtually all businesses are exposed to potential cyber-attacks, the consequences of such an attack to a law practice are much more severe: data theft or destruction, hacking, malware, worms, corporate espionage, ransomware, all of which threaten your clients' privileged data and creates a significant liability for your firm. Moreover, firms must also remain vigilant against potential data threats from within, be they from disgruntled employees, departing colleagues, or even unintended negligence.

By definition, a local system installation will always suffer from multiple points-of-failure which may only be mitigated through considerable infrastructure expenditures and operational costs, which include day-to-day maintenance, operating system and software application updates, hardware upgrades, continual data backups and, most importantly, around-the-clock safeguarding and monitoring of both physical and data assets against a myriad of threats.

Your business is the Law; ours is protecting your data.

Lexservo™ delivers all the requisite software application solutions your firm has come to rely upon, in a hardened, secured, locked-down cloud desktop. Starting on-premises, with provided high-availability firewalls, continuing through stringently secured network connections, and culminating in our state-of-the-art datacenters, your data is highly protected, guarded against intrusions, and monitored for improper access, yet made instantaneously available to authorized users on your approved devices, be it a PC, Mac, Tablet or Smartphone. Lexservo's infrastructure is virtually unassailable - the overall system cannot be disrupted by any single point of failure.

Say “adios” to system slowdowns, computer crashes, data losses, faulty backups, needless exposure to gaps in compliance, and the ongoing migraine of computer maintenance management. Best of all, not only does Lexservo cost considerably less than deploying and managing an equivalent in-house system, as a monthly subscription it does away with ongoing capital expenditures and makes your operating costs both manageable and predictable. The enterprise-level quality of Lexservo's infrastructure, born of our significant investment, is well beyond the means of the vast majority of legal practices. With Lexservo, your firm will benefit from the best Information Technology infrastructure, solutions, and resources, at a fraction of its actual cost. Compete to win clients with the most stringent enterprise-level data security needs, while avoiding making an enterprise-sized investment. With Lexservo, your defense never rests!
